What were the Fund costs for the last year?

(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Fund Name	Costs of a $10,000 investment	Costs paid as a percentage of a $10,000 investment
ICON Utilities and Income Fund Investor Class	$98	1.90%

What affected the Fund's performance this period?

With the Fed tightening monetary policy during 2022-2023, the Utilities sector significantly lagged the broad market. We believe the market reaction to utilities stocks was irrational, and in 2024 the market corrected itself. As a result of that, in 2024 the utilities sector outperformed the broad market and its index has returned just over 23.5%.

In 2024, the ICON Utilities and Income portfolio underperformed the S&P Composite 1500 Utilities, delivering a total return of 15.17% compared to the benchmark's 23.42%, resulting in a performance variation of -8.25%. This underperformance was primarily driven by a significant stock selection effect of -5.35%, although partially offset by a positive sector allocation effect of 3.25%. Within the sectors, the Utilities sector detracted the most from the portfolio's performance with a total contribution of -5.05%, particularly within the Electric Utilities subindustry, which alone contributed to a decrease of -3.31%. Conversely, the fund's holdings in the Wireless Communications industry contributed positively, adding 3.25% to the portfolio's performance.
